Video Remote Interpreting

A Sign Language Interpreting Resource, Inc.

Video Remote Interpreting

SignOn's Video Remote Interpreters (VRI) allow deaf and hearing people to communicate using videoconferencing technology. We specifically work with education, healthcare, and government organizations. SignOn VRI is the option when a skilled professional interpreter is needed or an onsite interpreter is simply not available. We will work with your existing videoconference equipment to connect with a professional, nationally certified sign language interpreter.

SignOn VRI Benefits

- Save on Travel Costs
- No minimum time charges
Per-minute charge-pay for what you use
- Interpreting services available on short notice
- Increased privacy for deaf clientele
- Access to a specialized pool of interpreters
- Peace of mind you will always be able to provide a professional, nationally certified interpreter
- Great as a backup interpreter due to an unexpected interpreter shortage
- Fulfill the Americans with Disabilities Act

Our customers tell us we're reliable, affordable, and have great customer service. SignOn has developed a process that is easy to set up and does not require a lot of technical skills. With just a computer, webcam, and broadband connection customers can be up and running in no time.

"SignOn has been very flexible to work with-- we can get services on an hour's notice. Such a great option. Flexible, convenient, competent."

-University Disabilities Coordinator

Once again, thank you so much for your continuous support...your company is amazing and I am glad I am working with you."

-Community College Interpreter Coordinator
